MAY UTILIZE CONVICT LABOR

Box Butte County May Vote on County Prison Labor Question at Next General Election

COUNTY ATTORNEY IN FAVOR

It is probable that the voters of Box Butte county will at the general election next year vote on the question as to whether or not the county prisoners shall work on the county roads.

"I consider this an important question, not only from the county's standpoint, but from the prisoners' standpoint as well," said County Attorney Bayse in conversation with a Herald reporter. "It would not only be a saving and a benefit to the county, in that the roads could be kept in good shape all over the county, but it has been my observation that most of the prisoners would greatly prefer to get out and work on the roads instead of languishing in the jail, especially during the spring, summer and fall months, right at the time when road building is in progress.

"The cost of keeping prisoners under present arrangements is $1.50 a day for the sheriff's services as guard and fifty cents a day for board. If the prisoners were required to work on the roads, the county would be getting some benefit from their services instead of holding them in jail while the cost of their maintenance goes on just the same. In the spring and summer there is a general influx of tramps and professional hoboes who commit petty crimes in and around Alliance, and a few days of hard work on the roads would do them good, and would really keep them under a better influence during their stay here. After this law has been in effect until it became generally known over the county, this class of men would 'fight shy' of Alliance and pick their routes on their migration through another section of the country. Even though this did cut down the normal road force, it would keep an undesirable class out of Alliance and the county and would tend to lessen the petty crimes that have been committed by them in the past."

Thus did County Attorney Bayse sum up his views on the subject. An examination of the Nebraska statutes reveals the fact that the law was enacted by the last legislature that any county could, at any election, vote on the county convict labor question. The law further states that if the question passes with a majority vote at the election, the county commissioners shall proceed to appoint a county highway commissioner, who will have charge of the prisoners and the work. It is preferable that some man be appointed to this position who is well acquainted with conditions over the county, and who has some knowledge of surveying. A proper guard would be provided to prevent escapes. After the first year, during which the county highway commissioner has held his position by appointment, the office becomes elective, the same as all other county offices.

At the present time any county may contract with the warden, subject to the approval of the state board of prison control, for convicts from the state penitentiary to work on the roads. The service of these convicts is paid for at a stipulated price "per head", the county paying for the board, lodging and guarding of the prisoners. An effort is being made to make the state institution self-sustaining, and this is one of the links in the plan. A paved highway is now under construction between Lincoln and University Place, the state paying the cost, and prison labor is being used almost exclusively on the work.

That Obstinate Headache

so often caused by eyestrain need no longer bother you if you will come here and be fitted with the proper glasses. Did you say they are not becoming? Now listen; some glasses are not, we will admit. With the passing of the old style high-bridge mounting, which was conspicuous and uncomfortable, we are now using the low-bridge eyeglass which works with the fingers, is artistic in design and really becoming.
